MILL FINISHED AND IN READINESS FOR OPERATION

Another Excellent Reduction Plant Added to the Gradually Improving Milling Facilities for Rawhide.

The Weiss mill, on the flat below town, which has been undergoing a rebuilding during the past month, was started up the first of the week and is now doing first class work. This was one of the most complete mills in this district for amalgamating and concentrating and is well adapted to the ores of the camp.

The ore is first run through a jaw crusher and then elevated to a large storage bin, from where it is spouted to a 10-foot Lane slow-speed mill for fine grinding. From this, the pulp is elevated to plates, where a large amount of plate surface is used—there being three 12-foot plates, each four feet wide. From these the pulp is run to two four-foot pan amalgamators, then on to a Spitzkasten classifier and finally to two Pinder tables and one Diester slimer.

After passing over these, practically everything of value that can be saved by amalgamation or concentration, has been recovered from the ore. The tailings are then run into large ponds, where they will be stored until a cyanide equipment has been added to the mill. The capacity of the plant will be from 30 to 40 tons per day, according to the hardness of the ore. The starting of this mill will raise the total capacity of mills in the camp to about 100 tons a day.

A great deal of credit is due to Mr. Klinker for pushing the rebuilding of this mill so rapidly and particularly to his judgment in selecting Mr. Paulson to take charge of the designing and millwright work. Mr. Paulson has had a great deal of experience in mill designing and construction work, both in Nevada and Montana, and the work that he has done for Mr. Klinker shows that he is a master of his profession.

Let the good work go on. There is one thing sure; there will never be occasion to shut down any of the mills for want of ore; and if the ore bodies continue to show up as fast in the future as they have during the past few months, they will all have to increase their plants very materially and very rapidly to keep out of the way of the ore.—Rawhide Press-Times.

ALBERGER IS BOOSTING STRONG FOR NEVADA

LONG BEACH, Cal., May 17.—Sitting down under the pergola at beautiful Hotel Virginia, Long Beach, Cal., and enjoying the breezes from the Pacific ocean, Mr. W. R. Alberger, traffic manager of the Tonopah and Tidewater railroad, recently talked very entertainingly with one of the editors of the California News service upon the business conditions in Nevada.

Mr. Alberger said that one of the very encouraging items of news is that just given out by the state bullion tax agent showing that the production of minerals in Nevada gained in value about $10,000,000 in 1909 over the figures of 1908; an increase of forty per cent in one year. He pointed out the tremendous copper deposits of Ely believed by many competent mining men to be as great as those of Butte, Montana; the steady and generous production of the silver mines of Tonopah and the gold mines of Goldfield and vicinity, together with the rejuvenation of the great mines of the Comstock lode, which is being undertaken by a wealthy syndicate of New Yorkers headed by the Lewishohns; all promising still greater output for Nevada in the coming years.

Added to this is the constantly increasing acreage of the state that is being brought under cultivation in several of the great valleys of Nevada, an increase that will receive tremendous impetus on the completion of the mammoth Truckee irrigation enterprise now being carried to completion by the United States government.

Mr. Alberger very aptly remarked that Nevada is not making as much noise as it did a few years ago; for the day of the magophone boomer is past and Nevadans are making less noise but more money. They are not selling shares, but raising stock. They are not mining in the public pocket, but digging in Nevada's store houses and producing minerals. They are not watering stocks, but irrigating their

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 17.—Jack Johnson, with the selection of the referee off his mind, went through the usual grind on the road this morning in preparation for his second day's boxing tomorrow. Johnson said he expected to box ten rounds tomorrow.

Tex Rickard was somewhat nettled by the reports that his name was suggested as a referee merely to fill the breach temporarily between the two principals. He has come out with a statement that he will referee the fight and that he won't give way to any man in the world.
